SIGHTSEEING
SALT LAKE CITY

Zion, the city of Saints, capital of Utah, founded in 1847 by the Mormon pioneers, who had truded overland from Illinois, is a center of business enterprise, natural beauty and historic interest. It is notably well laid out, with wide, straight streets, shaded by poplars, catalpas and other deciduous trees, and bordered by running mountain water. Within the city what usually first is inspected by the visitor is Temple Square, containing the chief Mormon buildings—the Temple, Tabernacle and Assembly Hall. Adjacent to the Square are the Beehive and Lion Houses, formerly the headquarters of Brigham Young, and the new Administration Building. The State Capitol Building, built of Utah granite and marble at a cost of $2,500,000, stands on an eminence at the head of State Street, overlooking the city, and contains a museum of natural resources that is well worth visiting. Fort Douglas, U S Military Post, located on the bench of the Wasatch Mountains, three miles east of the city, and can be reached by auto or electric car.

The one hour and fifty minutes interval between the arrival of Rio Grande No 1, 11.15 a.m. (Mountain Time), and departure of Western Pacific No 1, 12.05 P.M. (Pacific Time), affords the through traveler an opportunity to visit the principal places of interest in Salt Lake City and enjoy the stop to the fullest extent.
